

**FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE****

EDITORS: For review copies or interview requests, contact:

Marketing Services

Tel: 888-519-5121

Fax: 812-961-3133

Email: pressreleases@authorhouse.com

(When requesting a review copy, please provide a street address.)

Contemporary Project Management Model Contradicts Many Commonly Accepted Industry Practices

Noted expert with proven success emphasizes interpersonal skills in new nonfiction

CLEVELAND, Ohio – Success in the corporate world doesn't just come from determination and hard work. Increasingly, effective leadership requires finely honed interpersonal and social skills that many have long neglected. Today's well-rounded skill set places great emphasis on highly developed people skills, and in his new book, A Sixth Sense for Project Management (published by AuthorHouse), Tres Roeder emerges with a concise guide that focuses on improving interactions in the workplace.

Drawing upon the author's decade of experience leading Fortune 500 companies through significant changes of transition and growth, A Sixth Sense for Project Management combines personal anecdotes with research and straightforward analysis as it outlines the necessary components of successful project leadership.

With a contemporary, forward-thinking model that contradicts many commonly accepted industry practices, A Sixth Sense for Project Management has been specifically developed for project leaders and those responsible for other change initiatives. Roeder asserts that the rote, mechanical tenets of traditional project leadership are being replaced with more artistic, creative approaches.

Staying ahead of the curve is essential in today's competitive job market, and knowing how to interact with others to achieve the best possible results is an invaluable asset in any professional setting. Roeder shows readers how to stand out as leaders capable of bringing individuals together to work towards a common goal in this unparalleled new guide.

About the Author

Tres Roeder received his bachelor's degree in economics from the University of Illinois and an MBA from the Kellogg Graduate School of Management. He has specialized in project management for many years and is a highly-sought after speaker in the field. A former consultant with Booz Allen Hamilton, he founded Roeder Consulting in 2001, which has a 90 percent success rate for its projects and is known for its programs on improving people skills. A Sixth Sense for Project Management is Roeder's first book.

AuthorHouse, an Author Solutions, Inc. self-publishing imprint, is a leading provider of book publishing, marketing, and bookselling services for authors around the globe and offers the industry's only suite of Hollywood book-to-film services. Committed to providing the highest level of customer service, AuthorHouse assigns each author personal publishing and marketing consultants who provide guidance throughout the process. Headquartered in Bloomington, Indiana, AuthorHouse will celebrate 15 years of service to authors in Sept. 2011. For more information or to publish a book visit authorhouse.com or call 1-888-519-5121. For the latest, follow @authorhouse on Twitter.

###